ANDREY WINERY SCHAFIS

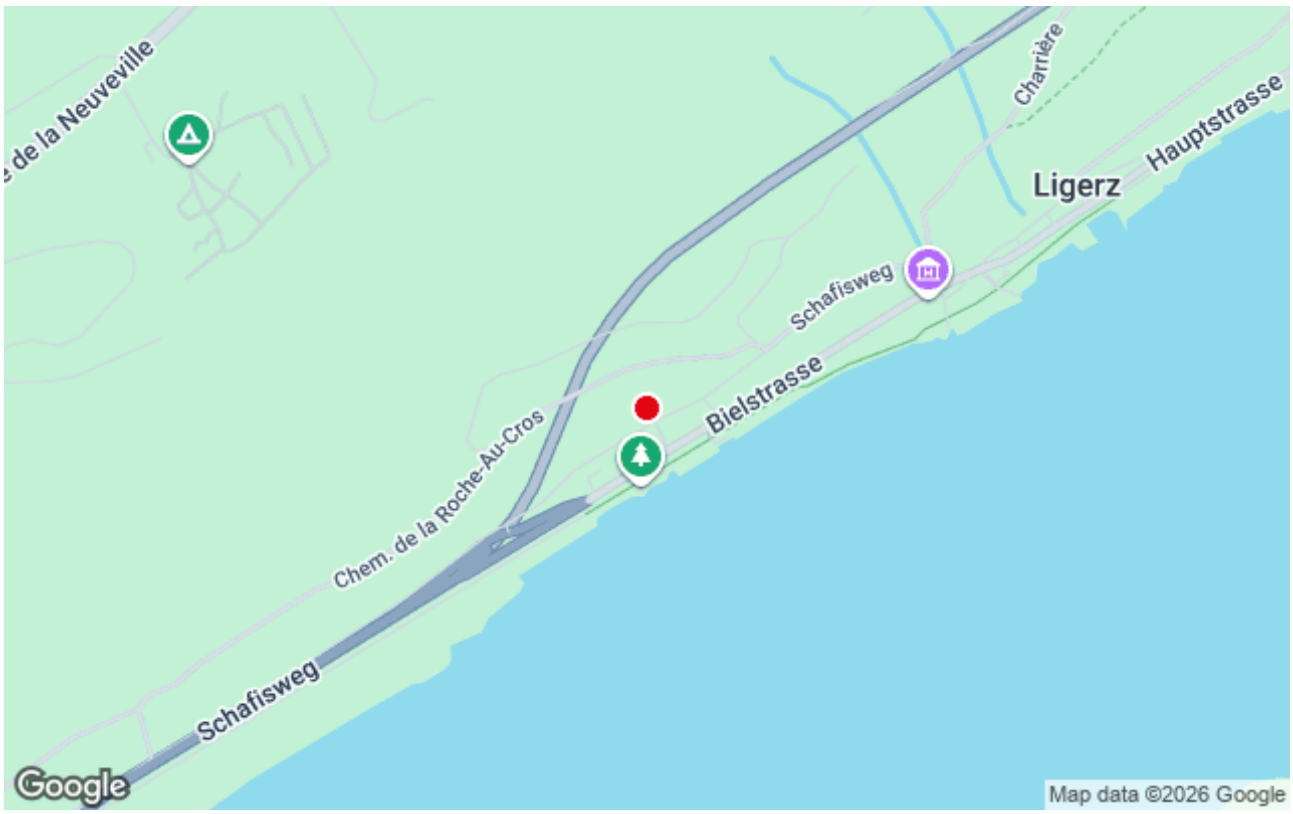

Stretching from Schafis to Le Landeron, the Andrey family's vineyards flourish along a limestone moraine at the southern base of the Jura mountains. Each vine is meticulously tended by hand, nurtured in perfect harmony with nature. The family has abstained from herbicides and insecticides for numerous years, displaying a steadfast commitment to environmental preservation. Throughout the wine production process, the Andrey family places tremendous emphasis on safeguarding the environment and upholding the distinctive terroir. The outcome is dynamic wines brimming with unmistakable character.

However, the Andrey family's dedication surpasses the realm of wine production. They curate regular events, where they treat their guests to gastronomic pleasures within their enchanting winery. Whether it's regional tapas, crispy fish bites, or hearty Treberwürste sausages, a distinctive culinary escapade is guaranteed. Inside their traditional wooden barrel cellar, they orchestrate tastings set against a unique backdrop. Both warm and chilled regional delicacies are presented in the inviting caveau or, weather permitting, on the terrace. A hallmark of the Lake Biel wine region, the much-loved Treberwurst dinners take place from January to March – a truly exceptional highlight.
