THE GRANDE CARIÇAIE IN THE AGE OF THE LAKESIDE

Gletterens is one of the 'Prehistoric Palaeolithic Sites around the Alps' listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, a label that underlines the historical and archaeological importance of these lakeside remains.The walk follows the nature trail between Chevroux and Gletterens on foot and is commented by a biologist. Birdsong, croaking frogs and the rustle of the wind in the reeds then disappear in favour of a leap into prehistoric times. A guided tour, a demonstration of how prehistoric people lit a fire and an animation with saga shots guarantee a leap back in time before returning to Chevroux by the same route.

This excursion takes place in absolute compliance with the rules of the nature reserve in areas freely accessible to the public. To avoid disturbing the wildlife and to facilitate observation, dog owners are advised to leave their dogs at home.
