HUDINILSON JR.

Since his death in 2013, the work of Hudinilson Jr. (1957-2013) has gained international recognition and is now considered one of the most important Brazilian positions in the field of Xerox Art, also known as Copy Art. At the end of the 1970s, Hudinilson Jr. began experimenting with photocopies – an artistic medium that soon became a central component of his work for both conceptual and practical reasons. For the first time in a Swiss institution, the exhibition presents a comprehensive selection of Hudinilson Jr.'s Xerox works, collages, artist's books and documentation of collaborative projects. It is complemented by works by his companions Rafael França and Mario Ramiro.
