

ART, EXHIBITION, NEUCHÂTEL

KSSSS KSSSS KSSSS, UTOPIAN BESTIARY

At the heart of the Natural History Museum of Neuchâtel, the new temporary exhibition brings to life astonishing mechanical insects crafted from disused musical instruments. These monumental sculptures, imagined by artists and instrument makers, invite visitors to rethink life, matter, and transformation. Balancing technological fascination with organic poetry, the exhibition awakens the curiosity of visitors of all ages. Through a sound and sensory universe, everyone is invited to reflect on the harmony between nature and human creation. An artistic immersion that contributes to a broader reflection on the environment and the reuse of objects.
