GOOD TO KNOW

- In addition to the instructions given by a professional watchmaker while assembling the watch, the courses at Initium also provide interesting information about the history of the regional watchmaking industry as well as theoretical knowledge about the functioning of a mechanical watch.
- For large groups, three-hour introductions to watchmaking are also available. In this case, participants will have the opportunity to disassemble and reassemble a working movement, allowing them to understand how a mechanical movement works in its entirety.
- In the general information section, add that we hold these courses at our workshops in
- Noirmont and Geneva, but that we also travel throughout Switzerland.
