EUROPEAN HERITAGE DAYS

The Roman Museum in Vallon is inviting visitors to discover the links and exchanges between the vast country house and Roman culture.

The two extraordinary mosaics, for example, are emblematic of the acculturation to the Roman way of life, both as a form of architectural ornamentation and in the choice of subjects depicted.

The statuettes in the rich lararium, meanwhile, bear witness to the various religious beliefs that coexisted in the Roman Empire and in our regions.

Not forgetting the hundred or so objects on display, illustrating the trade, technology and art of the period.

Guided tours by specialists (approx. 1 hour each):

- Saturday 13 September at 1.30pm, 3.30pm.
- Sunday 14 September at 1.30pm, 3.30pm.

During the European Heritage Days, admission and guided tours are free.
