ST. JODEL

St. Jodel is widely known for its glorious view, especially at sunset. Watching the celestial spectacle from here, you are standing on a piece of ground that is steeped in history, for it was an ancient place of worship, and was also believed to be a Celtic burial mound. A chapel once stood here and, in darker times, gallows.

GOOD TO KNOW

- Today, a play area, sensory trail and fire pit stand on this intersection of European energy lines, so-called ley lines.
