SVETA MORDOVSKAYA - COSTUME

The works of Sveta Mordovskaya (*1989) are mostly compositions made of simple materials that simultaneously testify to a process of dissection and fusion. They include various objects found on the street, as well as mirrors, dolls and even straw. The roughness of these assemblages evokes associations that are either affective in nature or relate to a socio-political context. The trained photographer also integrates images from her personal archive into the exhibition, which continue the problems of her sculpture in a critical and humorous way.
